

THE WIGWAMS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

TAMMANY AND MOZART.

THE FOUNDATION OF TAMMANY—NAMES OF ITS MEMBERS—THE INSIDE KING OF MANAGERS—MOZART AND HIS PROPRIOITIES.

During the election days just passed, readers of the City journals have been surprised with notes of the proceedings of the various political cliques—the more prominent of which on the Democratic side are the great factions of Tammany and Mozart. These latter designations are given to New York's "Democrats," those names being the most appropriate to the various political applications received wherever seen, numbers beyond the rivers which surround our peculiar city; have "Tammany" or "Mozart" as party motto. Within the city limits, so universally are these terms adopted, that none other were until lately employed to express the shade of a man's Democratic opinions, and yet it is doubtful if one half the voters of this city know who are the leading and controlling spirits of either of these distinctive whigs. For the information of all we present here below, touching facts concerning Tammany and Mozart.

While Cheloneum was conquering the more barbary Sixes under Whistler, and parading the way for himself that might reward his efforts, the Tammany Hall was being erected in New England, and the Irish men, Hinman and his factotum in the four hall which was to convey him and his fellow men to an unknown land, where what was then deemed the interminable wastes of the Atlantic, a plain in chief of the Delawares, was to be found.

TAMMANY.—It is the great Indian nation, far away and received tribute from all the great tribes of the red men, who hunted, fought, and overcame the Great Spirit in the woods and on the great prairies of the North American Continent. This great chief Tammany, who was born in the Hudson and Mississippi Rivers. As the legend goes Tammany must have been an Indian, Sir, as he is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany." The Evil Spirit gave a great deal of trouble afterward to Tammany until the great personal conflict which took place between the two on the Ohio River where Cincinnati now stands. The devil and Tammany, the great chief, fought for twenty-four hours, and at last he threw the Evans into the deep waters of the Ohio. From that time Tammany was relieved of his presence, and the Great Chief waxed strong and powerful, while his people prospered, and the land became as it were flowing with milk and honey. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—William M. Tweed, one of the Four Bell Men who rule Tammany Hall, familiarly known as "Tweedy" among the boys, and weighed 200 lbs, avaricious has been an office-holder for the last twenty years, is Chairman of the Tammany Hall Committee, and has been a member of the City Council, having been elected to that body in 1851. He is a man of great energy, and received tributes from all the great tribes of the red men, who hunted, fought, and overcame the Great Spirit in the woods and on the great prairies of the North American Continent.

This great chief Tammany, who was born in the Hudson and Mississippi Rivers, as he is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—Daniel E. Delavan, an old Tammany veteran. Treasurer of Tammany Hall General Committee and chairman of a number of committees. Residence No. 307 West Broadway, thirtieth, Edward C. Corbin, residence No. 21 West Thirty-third, Edward C. Corbin, residence No. 21 East Broadway, twenty-eighth, Samuel J. T. Morrissey, residence No. 21 West Thirty-third, Edward C. Corbin, residence No. 21 East Broadway, twenty-eighth, John Murphy, commonly known as "Brick Murphy," not from the color of his hair, but that he keeps a brick yard east of East Thirty-third street, also resides in No. 21. Alexander First, merchant, No. 80 Plaza, residence No. 229 West Thirty-third, Thomas Dunlap, one of the "old boys," Tammany, always a great favorite with the Astorians, and a man of great energy, and received tributes from all the great tribes of the red men, who hunted, fought, and overcame the Great Spirit in the woods and on the great prairies of the North American Continent.

This great chief Tammany, who was born in the Hudson and Mississippi Rivers, as he is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

MOZART.—John Kelly, estate-maker, Alderman, Greenbacker in Congress, and Sheriff. A very successful politician, who forced Tammany Hall to nominate him two years ago for the office which he now holds. James O'Brien, Alderman, keeps several "Exchange offices." Exchange is another name for Policy, since to these who are accustomed with New-York, when Kimer, green, No. 200, is used, it is understood to mean Tammany Hall. Kelly is a bar attached to Mr. O'Brien's premises. Peter Lynch, rummer, No. 22 St. Nicholas, residence No. 377 Broadway, is also a Tammany, who is reported to have founded all the roads, frogs, serpents and other grim things of his territory. Tammany, the Sun God, had a great heart, benevolence and kindness, as well as justice toward his friends and enemies, and sought to destroy by force of the great chief, the ten thousand savages of mathematics to inflict Tammany, bands and larger swarms of savages and Indians. When he died he left his empire to his son, who was destroyed by the enemy of Tammany, under the broad and licks of the Great West.

The evil spirit still abiding that Tammany would not easily be destroyed, he sent his spirit to the great lakes of Michigan, which, at a general rising of the waters of Lakes Huron and Michigan, had still the great chief held on, although it threatened to deluge the territory of Tammany. At last he threw himself down across Lake Erie at the spot where Toledo now stands, and was buried there, the falls of the Miami. However Tammany averted the danger by opening drains in the Miami, Wahab and Allegheny Rivers, and by cutting a ditch which in present forms the channel of the Ohio. For this deliverance he was styled the "Great Chief of the Tammany."

TAMMANY.—John Fox, formerly a Bazaar host-man and a well-known First Ward politician. Late elected to the Legislature. The Tammany Committee has been constituted for him, and he is reported to be a candidate for Congress in the Fifth District. Peter H. Parker, a former collector of the Tammany Hall, and the General Committee have no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power or influence in any way in the management of the Tammany Hall. John Hayes, lawyer, No. 10 Broad-st., George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, Thomas Leavy, occupation, cutter, No. 10 Bowery, and George W. Moore, No. 22 Bowery, are the Tammany Hall members of the Tammany Club, which is a branch of the Tammany Hall, and the Tammany Club has no power